Dehorn Commercial Cattle

Horns are expensive and harmful ornaments for commercial cattle. The market demands call for an animal without horns and the only place where the pressure of horns can be justified is in the show ring or in stables where each animal is sold.

In an investigation conducted at a western packing plant, in which the cattle receipts covering a period of six weeks were examined, it was found that from 25 to 35 per cent of all cat-tles delivered to the plant were bruised, four fifths of which were badly bruised from the effects of horns grinding. Many of these carcasses were so badly damaged that they were only fit for the second class meat trade.

The packers protect themselves against loss by avoiding the horned animal as far as possible and buying at a lower

available. This accounts for the fact that the hornless cattle sell more readily at a higher price than do those having horns.

The man buying cattle for feeding wants hornless cattle because they are more contented in the feed lot and consequently make economical gains.

An experiment conducted at the

Scott Experimental Farm, included

52 head of steers, shows an average of 44 pounds greater gain per head made by hornless steers as compared with steers dehorned at the beginning of the feeding period. This shows the necessity of dehorning while young.

It is unwise to dehorn during hot weather but October or November is a very suitable time or in the spring before feed appears. The most hun-man method is to treat the young calf with caustic potash when a few days old.

Reasons for dehorning:

1. Better market returns.

2. Maximum results for feed consumed.

3. Quicker sales.

4. Contentment in the herd.

5. Pair play in the feed lot.

6. Easier handling.

7. Less shrinkage in transit.

8. No bruises to discount sales.

Write to the Scott Experimental Farm for pamphlet regarding the dehorning of commercial cattle.

500,000 CHINESE FACING DEATH IN BESIEGED CITY

Hankow—Vowed up more than a month by the Red Cantonese army besieging the city, 500,000 Chinese people face death by starvation, cold, and gunfire in Wuhan. Large numbers of dead lie in the streets. Those remaining have eaten dogs, cats, rats and are dropping in public places or dying miserably in shelters into which they have crawled.

The Northern troops of Marshal Wu Peifu, gunning the city, having been refused terms of surrender, are blocking on desperately, hoping for armies of their ally, Sun Chuan Pang, to break through the Cantonese corridor.

Meanwhile the relentless well-fed Cantonese outside the wall fed politically on their arms, having blockaded all exits from the city and await the time when they shall enter. What will happen then is not known. A vestige of mercy has been shown. Beginning last Sunday, women and children of the impoverished classes have been permitted to pass through the gates to the river, seeking passage across to Hankow. Thirty-eight thousand have been rescued by boats bearing the emblem Hankow to be carried for.

Scenes of horror are witnessed each trip of the boats. In the fight for the boats, the boatsmen, who have been trampled to death at the massacred horrors struggled for rescue. Many, thrown into the river, are drowned.

Only a few miles away are the troops of Sun Chuan Pang, ruler of the five provinces of Eastern China, trying to thrust aside the Cantonese who oppose their march to the relief of beleaguered Wuhan. Sincerely relief must come to the Wuhan defenders within a few days.

Will Resume Customs Probe

First Sitings Will Be Held on October 25

Ottawa—Sittings of the enlarged Royal Commission investigating the customs department will be resumed Monday, October 25. This was announced by W. D. Baker, Minister of Customs and Excise. He later gave no indication of where the commission would sit first, inasmuch as it received here that it probably will meet in Toronto. The Toronto sitting, it is expected, will be followed after each at border points of Ottawa and then the commission will likely go west.

Curative Powers Of Sun

Parade.—The curative powers of the sun's rays are to be greatly increased during the next year, according to Dr. Milton Pettit of Mount Wilson Observatory here. He has announced the he has found that the ultra-violet rays of the sun, the power of the sunlight that cures some diseases and also causes sunburn, are to be more numerous in 1927. This he caused, he said, by the increasing spots on the sun.

Hopes To Set Record

London—Lady Haire, wife of Sir Samuel Haire, who is in the British cabinet, hopes next spring to set up a long distance airplane record for women.

She will accompany her husband on a flight from London to India, via Egypt, a distance of 4,750 miles. The flight will inaugurate a regular longer service, which will at first extend from Cairo to Karachi, India.

Coal Strike Affects Brazil

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.—The British coal strike is crippling Brazil's transportation facilities, the government having cut down train service to reduce the consumption of coal. The shortage in coal is due to the fact that many steamers have discontinued South American trade in order to handle the more lucrative transport of coal from the United States to Rio de Janeiro.

Cobham Narrowly Escapes Injury

Wheat Pool Payment

Final Payment On 1925 Wheat To Be Made Soon

Winnipeg—Several millions of dollars will be distributed among the farmers of Western Canada, members of the Wheat Pool, shortly.

The final payment on 1925 wheat delivered by members of the pool in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, probably will be announced early this week. A. J. MacPhail, president of the Wheat Pool, and vice-president of the Cooperative Selling Agency, will announce the date from his Regina office, according to information secured at the Manitoba pool offices.

Mr. MacPhail is the chief official now in Canada, the others being in en route to Australia. The Canadian pool has already made three payments totalling $1.40, while many farmers are now enjoying the initial payment of $1 on the 1925 crop. Deliveries of the 1925 crop, however, are far behind schedule, owing to the wet weather. The total deliveries in Western Canada so far this year are about 40,000,000 bushels. Very little grain has been received from Alberta, but Saskatchewan has contributed 2,000,000 bushels, and Manitoba about 1,500,000.

Old Manuscripts Found

Unknown Poems Of Persian Poet Discovered in India

London.—The discovery of previously unknown poems by Omar Khayyam reported in a despatch to The Daily Express from Karachi, British India. The correspondent says that he is digging for a foundation for a building at Sehwan, in the Province of Sind, unearthed a brass box containing manuscripts of many hitherto unknown quatrains written by Omar during his wanderings in Sind.

Omar, a Persian poet and astronomer, died in the first quarter of the twelfth century.

Regina.—P. H. Auld, deputy Minister of Agriculture, has received notice that the conference for the purpose of discussing standard grades of dressed poultry has been postponed at the request of the Canadian Poultry Association. C. M. McRae, acting Live Stock Commissioner at Ottawa, informing this information said that the conference probably will be held in January.

Krassin Returns As

Envoy For Soviets

Seeks British Gold For Rehabilitation Of Russian Industry

London.—The return of Leonid Krassin to London as soviet envoy is thought to mark the beginning of a new phase of Anglo-Russian relations. M. Krassin, who is admitted in a general interview with the British press, comes seeking money for the rehabilitation of Russian industry. He is a keen business man but he realizes it cannot be obtained unless serious arrangements for the repayment not only of the new, but the old debts are made immediately.

His return is due to the continuation of a long series of secret negotiations with persons who, while not directly representing the conservative British Government, are in close touch with it. The conservative government is very anxious to resume friendly relations with Russia for the sake of the Russian market, which, it is afraid, may go to Germany if the resumption of relations with England is long delayed. However, Prime Minister Baldwin still insists on a settlement principle, at any rate, of the old debts. It is believed Russia is now willing to do so, but not on a cash basis, but to pay too much, and too soon.

The British also are disposed to insist on some guarantee that Russia will cease to interfere in the domestic affairs of Great Britain, and is willing to give a guarantee not to interfere in the Baltic. This means Russia must promise to cease financing labor troubles in England.

PROBABLY NO OPPOSITION TO KING MINISTERS

Ottawa.—Conservative political observers expressed the opinion that there will probably be no opposition by their party to the re-election of any of the Liberal ministers at the coming by-elections on November 5, made necessary by the formation of the King cabinet.

While no official announcement has been made, it is indicated, however, that the final decision is a matter to be dealt with by the Conservative executive in the various cabinet offices.

The belief that Liberal ministers will be returned without opposition, inasmuch as Conservative headquarters are concerned, is partly based upon an official statement issued recently from Premier Meighen, which states that the presence of Premier W. L. Mackenzie King at the Imperial conference will be facilitated as far as possible.

Already advice has been received from Regina that Conservatives there will offer no opposition to the reelection of Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Railways and Canals.

There are rumors, though, of possible opposition by local Conservatives in the Col. J. L. Ralston, in Nova Scotia, in view of his appointment to the portfolio of Minister of National Defence.

Sir Alan Cobham is Planning Trans-Canada Flight

London.—Sir Alan Cobham, upon whom the honor of knighthood was conferred a few days ago in recognition of the famous aviator's series of world-renowned flights, will visit Western Canada zone: time in the near future, it is stated in reliable quarters here. Cobham is planning a "Canada tour" right in which he will visit many points in the Dominion. No definite date has yet been set for this projected trip, but it is said to be one of the first plans entertained by the British ace for the near future.

The Daily Express today said that Cobham was contemplating a trans-Atlantic plane flight and that it would likely follow a lecture tour through North America. Plans for this flight have been under consideration for some time, the paper stated.

Sir Alan Cobham, who recently returned to London from a round trip to Australia, in which he proved conclusively the feasibility of such long distance flights by experienced aviators and worthy planes are employed.

Steamship Lines Feel

German Competition

Liners Being Taken Off New York To

Hamburg Route
Montreal.—Competition for Canadian steamship lines operating to New York from Hamburg is said to be responsible for the projected withdrawal in the near future of several British companies from that run. The White Star line, which operates the Arabic on a five weeks schedule to Halifax and New York, return being made direct to Hamburg, took this step on the day after her departure from Hamburg October 2. The liner will be employed on the Antwerp, Bournemouth, Southampton, Halifax, New York service, her sailing from New York October 20 being direct to Antwerp and the next from Europe, will be out of the British port.

The S.S. Andania of the Cunard Line has been on the Hamburg, Southampton, Cherbourg, Halifax and New York service, but it is expected she will be taken off on the completion of her schedule which calls for a sailing on October 28 and another on December 1 to Halifax and New York.

No change is being made in the Canadian Pacific sailings to Hamburg.

The wreaths will be deposited on Armistice Day by Mrs. Laneolett Dent, lady superintendent in chief for all brigades overseas, on behalf of the women of the order, and by Major General Sir Richard Havelock, chief commissioner for the St. John Ambulance Brigade overseas for the men members.

LORD BYNG IS INTERVIEWED ON REACHING HOME

Southampton.—Lord and Lady Byng arrived at Southampton on board the Empress of France, which was gaily decorated with bunting. The former Governor-General of Canada and Lady Byng were officially welcomed by the Mayor and Sheriff, and then his lordship received a large group of newspapermen.

One of the first enquiries put to Lord Byng by the press representatives was with regard to his constant untiring power as Governor-General. His answer was raised recently in connection with the political situation at Ottawa.

"I think we had better leave that to the Lord States," he said. "Everything turned out very satisfactorily. If the question is raised at all again it will be at the Imperial conference, but at the present moment there is nothing one can say about it. I say, it all worked out very well."

Asked about the recent Dominion general election Lord Byng expressed the opinion that the result of the election was mainly due to the popularity of the Robb budget, with reduced taxation, and to three good harvests. Lord Byng spoke with enthusiasm of the prospects which Canada opened to British people who were prepared to work hard there.

Some of the newspapermen asked Lord Byng about the national status of Canada and the possibility of the union of the Dominion with the United States.

"There are extremists in every party—Imperial extremists and Canadian nationalists extremists," His Lordship replied.

"In the union of Canada with the United States possible?" was another question asked of His Lordship.

"A union of friendliness, most certainly," replied Lord Byng. "I do not think the interview stood the least incommensurate catchment with character, patience and good humor."

"You do not worry about Canadian extremists on this side of the ocean," he added.

Touching on his relations with the politicians at Ottawa, Lord Byng said: "I have been Governor-General when Conservative and Liberal ministers have been at the head of affairs, and my relations never have been anything but of an extremely friendly nature with everybody."

BRITISH MINERS REJECT OFFER OF THE GOVERNMENT

London.—The delegate conference of the Miners' Federation by an overwhelming majority, rejecting the government's offer to create a national arbitral tribunal for the settlement of disputes between the miners and mine owners, and an equally large majority voted in favor of the withdrawal of the safety men from the mines.

Thus the Government passes out of the debate, temporarily at least and the owners and the men are left to fight out the struggle between themselves.

The delegate conference adopted a resolution rejecting the government's proposals for a settlement of the strike after the announcement of a district vote, which resolved the proposals, 231,000 to 42,000.

The South Wales resolution to withdraw the safety men was adopted by the delegates by an overwhelming majority.

The government had already made it plain that unless its offer was accepted by the miners, it would be withdrawn. The government's offer, a feature of the offer was governmental assurance that if the miners returned to work they would be receiving governmental assistance in obtaining a nationwide agreement, which is one of the important demands of the miners.

The decision of the miners was taken in the face of practical exhaustion of their resources. In addition, they had been working for a long time on a slow drift of the miners back to work. Withdrawal of the safety men, if put into effect, would be likely to cause serious trouble not only in the mines, but between the strikers and those desiring to return to their jobs.

Strange Insurance Policies

Lloyd's Appear to be Ready to Issue Insurance Policies Against Any Unforeseen Happenings

Whenever war looms on the horizon, Lloyd's is ready to issue insurance policies that the holders will be given a certain time.

Whenever a king or some other person dies on the threshold of death, Lloyd's will sell insurance policies, moderate premiums, of course—that he will die before the week is out or within whatever time that the policyholder stipulates.

Lloyd's always is willing to insure persons that earthquakes, marine disasters or other catastrophes will not take place within a given time.

It is natural that under these circumstances Lloyd's suffers enormous losses on a large percentage of the policies. But on the other hand, its income from the same source, and particularly from the smaller policies, covering figures of importance to only a few, is even larger, with only now and then a bad year for the underwriters.

In the weeks before King Edward died there was a good deal of speculation as to how much longer he would live. When his condition was first reported as serious, Lloyd's issued policies at 20 per cent that he would die within a day and 10 per cent that he would die within fourteen days. But King Edward lived through the two weeks, and Lloyd's lost heavily.

The trial of Harry Thaw, in New York, for the murder of Stanford White, in 1907, was another example of a good deal of betting. Lloyd's underwriters decided that Thaw would not be executed and that Thaw would be hanged after a heavy trial in back up this opinion. Thaw is living and Lloyd's underwriters still remember the golden harvest they reaped on that occasion.

A British peer took out a policy of £100,000 against his niece's eloping with a young man. The year passed without the young girl eloping, but the gentleman breathed easier, despite the money he had lost, because his niece had not made an undesired marriage.

There are young men who take out policies that they will not get married before they are married, and young women who insure that they will not marry a chaplain before they are married. And there are others who insure that they will not die before they are married.

Valuable Watch Stolen From London Museum

Belonged to Oliver Cromwell and Was in Good Order

Stonewall Yard stated that a valuable watch was stolen from a showcase—by two "jacks-in-the-box" in the London Museum.

The watch is officially described as follows: "Oliver Cromwell's watch, made in 1711, by James Ward, of London, formerly the property of the Prince Regent, George IV, Ovoid in shape, the body of the watch is 1 1/2 inches long by 1 1/2 inches wide, and weighs 2 1/2 ounces. On dial in silver (only one half view of the spires of Worcester Cathedral and two rabbits browsing. The watch is in good order, except for the chain, which has perished."

"Enclosed in a modern silver case inscribed as follows: 'The gift of His Royal Highness the Prince Regent, 24th June, 1816, to Bernard Allister, Esq., of London.' The watch originally belonged to Oliver Cromwell. The whole enclosed in a museum case."

Searching For Rare Animals

Expedition Starts for Unexplored Parts of Abyssinia

The Chicago Daily News and Field Museum of Natural History expedition has just set out to see the mountains of Abyssinia, France, bound for the unexplored parts of Abyssinia. The five members of the party are taking with them 2,000 pounds of scientific equipment, arms and ammunition.

Dr. Wilfred Wood, curator of the department of zoology of the Field Museum, and leader of the expedition, said that it would probably be six to eight months before the party reaches the rare animals that are the object of their quest. These include the Queen of Sheba's antelope of Nyala, the Dalila baboon, the relictated giraffe, the pygmy mouse and the black-maned lion.

The party will land at Jibuti, in French Somaliland, and travel from there to Addis Ababa, in the heart of Abyssinia, by rail.

How Fanatics Are Handled in England

Most of Them Allowed to State Their Grievances

Take them from the state, steady going Britisher wants to do this thing, and he can put it all over any of the mercantile emotional fuss on earth.

The other day a bar-fetted, hatless man heavily manacled in rusty chains led around his neck and around his wrists and ankles made a sudden appearance at the door of the Downing street residence of Premier Balfour. This would be the equivalent of a like appearance at the door of the White House. Inspectors on duty descended upon the man, who explained that he had come to present a petition to the Premier, calling attention to the condition of the unemployed. He was permitted to hand the petition to the Premier, but then disappeared around a corner into a neighboring garage where he directed himself to his parlor and disappeared.

We are not quite sure what would happen to an individual who, thus attired, should present himself at the White House. He might be speedily escorted out of the house as a dangerous person. We are quite sure that he would be dragged out of the police station and quite likely be sent to the police station for a short time.

They have a better way of handling such lunatics in England, where they go on the theory that it is much better for all concerned to let the disturbed get it out of their systems as speedily as possible and make no fuss about it. They know that escaping them never did anyone any harm.

Another Labor-Saving Device

From Presses Clothes on Weaver

Of all the labor-saving devices lately perfected, none amuses more on first hearing than the new flat iron which presses clothes on the water while he steams. It is generated by electric heat, and the canvas bottom of the strange iron. This steam, it is said, removes every wrinkle and raises the nap of the garment. The weaver experiences no discomfort, and in a few minutes his work is renewed and one more beautiful.

Perhaps this is the kind of thing used in the gas station with the tall shop pillars that of which some have heard abroad about the Oswego, N.Y., railroad. The Oswego, N.Y., railroad, the new fashion which has already to gas and oil the steam, may have his clothes pressed while he family consume their orange pop, sweet chocolate and tea cream cones. All of which does very well. And there can be no doubt about the potential value of labor-saving. The only doubt arises when one considers the problem of what is going to be done with all the saved time and labor. If the laborer is to be saved, he is going to use his extra minutes in a quiet and restful contemplation of nature and the universe, good enough. If he is just going to run around and burn up some more gas and add some more noise to an already noisy universe—both while he has any standards of values, today, any day.

Should Ought Go Barefoot

Walking Without Shoes Is Good For Feet Says Chiropodist

"Walk barefoot in the sand or grass if you would avoid foot troubles," Dr. J. J. Monahan, of Chicago, stated before the first convention of the Ontario Association of Chiropodists in the Prince George Hotel, Toronto.

Pointing out that each part of the foot was adapted primarily to some special work, Dr. Monahan stated that to convert a normal member into a deformed, useless foot was only necessary to have certain parts of the foot perform functions that they were not suited to.

According to the speaker, that part of the foot which today is more abused than any other is the ball of the foot, which should bear the weight. But high heels had shifted the burden, as it were he said, and as a result, there is a marvellous view of the foot being brought into being.

Growing Tobacco in North

Tobacco may be grown in every part of Canada, even north of the 55th degree, a bulletin of the Canadian Pacific Railway announces.

The tobacco plants are grown as are cabbage. When the last spring frosts are over the plants are set out. One Alberta farmer, living north of 55, has never failed to produce a crop.

Second colored boy: "Don't you talk, mister, you is such a little threat you could pass through my class every day"

Many Chinese Live in Boats

Millions Know No Other Home Than the Sampans

A large proportion of China's enormous population live in boats upon the rivers and waterways. Especially is this the case in the province of Southern China, where whole families of several generations live together in sampans, as the flat-bottomed boats are called.

At the large ports and on many of the rivers the sampans are so closely packed together that they resemble a floating town. These waterborne boats, their own shops, inns, and business establishments, moored to the banks, where trade is carried on just as it is on land. The inhabitants spend their whole time trading up and down the river coast.

Though as a rule, the Chinese are used to over crowding and unsanitary homes, it is a novel how human beings can exist under such crowded conditions as in the flat-bottomed boats of a sampan. A patriarchal family of perhaps five or six members, will live year after year in a cozy floating boat no larger than the entrance hall of an average London suburban villa.

The Chinese are the most adaptable people in the world. Millions of them are born and die in these boats and know no other life, and they seem happy enough under the difficult circumstances.

Woolmen Will for Alberta

A proposal to establish a woolen mill at Edmonton, Alta., has been made by F. H. Copp, who has been operating a mill at Fort Rye, New Brunswick.

Mr. Copp's clothing mill was destroyed by fire in August, 1921, and he has since been engaged in the manufacture of wool. His ship's material to Edmonton, and is satisfied that Northern Alberta offers a splendid location for a woolen mill.

Fresh Natural Scenes With New Road

There is a fresh unfolding of the wonders of nature in the new scenic area opened up by the Lake Louise-Feld Highway through the mountains.

The glories of the Yoho National Park in British Columbia are as cable Lake Wapiti and Emerald Lake are now accessible to the motorist. This latest achievement is the completion of a motor highway from the central Rockies.

From Lake Louise, the town of the Rockies, the road proceeds south through a series of plateaus and up to the Great Divide of the Rockies. Its easy grades the motorist glides down to Lake Wapiti, the entire of a romantic and picturesque region. The descent continues through the Kicking Horse Pass to the Yoho Valley. Here in British Columbia, a part of the abandoned right of way is used and some of the most scenery in the world is unveiled. There is a marvellous view of the Yoho Valley peering in its glittering glacier.

Students Prefer To Study Bible

Choose It Instead of Hindu Sacred Books Says Ghani

Mahatma Gandhi, who is teaching the Christian Bible an hour a day in the national university at Ahmedabad, was taken to task by the Hindu divines.

"I will teach what the students want," Gandhi replied.

"When I was invited to teach an hour a week, I gave them their choice between reading the Hindu Sacred Books, 'Gita and Ramayana' and the Bible," he continued. "By a majority vote they decided on the New Testament. The boys know all about the Gita, but want me to teach them the Bible, since it is known to have made a great study of that book."

Willing To Oblige

Professor Dana Offered Use of His Filiver to Henry Ford

Professor Henry Dana of Boston, a grandson of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, was recently conducting Henry Ford through the Longfellow house in Cambridge, Mr. Ford was expecting his Lincoln car to call for him presently, and to take him back into town for dinner, but as much time passed, and the automobile still failed to arrive, Mr. Ford became more and more nervous.

At last Mr. Dana thought it was high time for him to intervene tactfully. "Mr. Ford," he said in his earnest manner, "if the worst comes to the worst, I can drive you over in my filiver."

A Baker's Dozen

"A baker's dozen," signifies 13 for 12. When a heavy penalty was inflicted for short weight, bakers gave a surplus number of loaves, called the "bread," to avoid risk of loss. The 13th loaf given to the dozen was called the "baker's dozen." It is to give a man a sound drubbing, i.e., all he deserves and one stroke more.

The knowledge that one-half the world doesn't know how the other half lives is a constant source of worry to some people.

Students Taught How To Handle Hecklers

Methods Used by English School of Interested Lloyd George

David Lloyd George, himself the centre of many a verbal battle with hecklers, was an interested spectator recently of the methods used by the school for Liberal speakers to forcibly students against the terrors of heckling.

Several speakers were chosen by lot, and a group of expert hecklers were chosen to annoy them. The hecklers permitted the speakers to move to reach their points before hurrying disconcerting questions at them.

"What do you mean by inebrius?" demanded one heckler. "Is it some kind of an inebriator?"

"If the gentleman will come forward," replied the student speaker, "nonchalantly," "I will show the audience what an inebrius is like."

Useful Clock For Autos

Invention Does Many Things Besides Telling Time

A combined clock, water gauge and thermometer has been invented for motor cars. It will fit any lockless radiator cap. The hands and figure of the clock are illuminated so that they are visible on the darkest night. As the thermometer is directly in the driver's line of vision, it is never necessary for him to take his eyes from the road. The thermometer shows the temperature of the radiator and the gauge tells of any shortage of water.

A Leading Woman Capitalist

Vicountess Rhonda, is England's leading woman capitalist. Lady Rhonda succeeded to the estate and business interests of her late husband and instead of placing a male representative in care of her interests she increased the world or finance and business herself, and year by year she has increased her holdings and her personal resources. She is now an active director in twenty-eight major industrial enterprises.

Goats Raising

Goat raising has become an important branch of agriculture in the Columbia, according to the Natural Resources Intelligence Service, Department of the Interior at Ottawa.

Goat milk finds a ready market from 15 to 25 cents per quart in Vancouver and Victoria and the yield runs as high as one gallon daily per animal, although the usual quantity is from three to six pints. The Nubian goat is sold to yield as much as 3 to 4 quarts per day of superior milk. This milk is highly recommended by doctors for feeding babies and invalids. Butter and cheese made from it are highly prized by those who have learned to use these products. The skins of goats are utilized for gloves and in the production of leathers of fine texture and high value used in bookbinding, etc. Goats are easily cared for and many of the B.C. herds are situated largely by children.

The animals are milked morning and evening the same way. Good feed and properly balanced rations are just as necessary for the goat as for the cow with the dairy goat. One and one half to two pounds of grain and meal daily are necessary for the goat. The Nubian of the Dominion Experimental Farm who is also authority for the statement that there is good money to be made in goat raising, estimates a quart, at which price its valuable distinctive qualities and richness would ensure it an inestimable market.

Goats have hitherto been confined to the Old World, being especially numerous in the mountain regions of Europe and Asia. Both sheep and goats are typical mountain animals but goats will thrive wherever there is rough grazing. They are hardy and do not, like sheep, confine themselves to grass.

The domestic goat is represented by many varieties which differ in the length of the hair, in color and in the shape of the horns. In the short-haired class (the English goat) the coat is short and smooth. The long-haired (or Irish) goat is more frequently earthy red, although occasionally white or pink. The horns are large, curved, and pointed, and rise close together in parallel lines. The coat is very thick and the hair is long and light.

The Angora and the Kashmir goats are often confused but are in reality distinct. Both yield a beautiful silky wool. The latter, which carries a good quality of coat which resembles wool. In the Angora goat the wool is carried in the neck, outside the hairy covering, but in the Kashmir goat the wool is next the skin. The Nubian goat carries short, wavy hair, and the ears are pendulous, the legs long, and the coat of the female is extremely short. The Maitane goat is generally hornless, and is found in the mountains of the Himalayas. It has very long ears and very long hair, and its horns are erect and spiral.

The commercial success of the goat herds in British Columbia not only points to similar possibilities in other Canadian provinces, in all of which there is little doubt that the goat would make a valuable registered producer and family asset, but at the same time there is available the splendid climatic and registered stock of the B.C. herds and the experience in breeding and marketing which B.C. owners have gone through with their own herds.

The Canadian Way

Crime Is Adequately Punished Says Spokesman Paper

At Winnipeg three highwaymen held a citizen and robbed him of $1,000. In some parts of the world this would be a crime of the magnitude would have been looked upon as a minor escapade, called for a jail sentence of a few days, and returned to the bar by the judge. But this sort of leniency is not awarded to highwaymen in Canada. One of the convicted men was sentenced to three and one-half years' imprisonment and twenty lashes, ten lashes at once and ten when the term expires; another to three years and twenty lashes, and the youngest of the trio was given three years and a paddling. If the American had been the offender, the sentence of that treatment, they would see a slump in crime.

Not by Bread Alone

does Canadian Agriculture drive on to Greatness

A MILLION workers on Canadian farms are producing substantially more than a billion dollars' worth of farm products. In the first quarter of "Canada's century" our areas of land under cultivation have increased threefold, from 20 million acres to 60 million acres—yet only one-fifth of Canada's arable land is being cultivated.

While our wheat lands are filling up in the steady march toward prosperity the older farmers are applying the methods that will ensure the extension of agriculture from year to year because of the extension of dairying and the diversity of crops. The west is well on its way to offering a "balanced ration" of foodstuffs to the world.

The Bank of Toronto, through its chain of branches is close to the new trends and sounder practices of Canadian agriculture from coast to coast and holds the firm conviction that the great basic industry that means life to the nation—because it deals in the raw material of food and clothing—was never on a more promising and substantial basis.
